HOLY TRINITY SUNDAY

Gen 18: 1-8 - Romans 11:25-36 - Matthew 28:16-20

WHO IS GOD?

The fundamental teaching of the faith is to answer the primary question of all of theology: who is God? What the Church came to see through praying and meditating the Bible and the events of Jesus' life is that although God is one, God is not solitary.

God is one but a communion of three persons — Father, Son and Holy Spirit — one divine nature, but existing in three persons, not because they are three separate somethings, but because they are three distinct someones.

This revelation about God is no small matter. It means that God in himself is relational. It means that, as St. John puts it, “God is love” (1 Jn 4:8).

St. Augustine therefore explains the Trinity in this way: if you see love, you see the three — the one who loves (the Father), the one who is loved (the Son) and the love itself (the Holy Spirit). Love cannot exist in the abstract; you cannot say “I love” without saying what or whom you love; so likewise, God's love is of and for something, except that God is entirely self-sufficient. What he loves is himself, and in that love, there is both perfect unity and perfect relationship.
